TNT SOARS AGAIN

Club Wins National Masters Indoor Championships

The TNT International Racing Club won the team championship at the USA Masters Indoor Track & Field Championships in Bloomington, Ind., in March.

TNT, based at Lincoln University, racked up 534 points to beat out second-place Southern California Track Club with 481 points and the Atlanta Track Club with 310. Another Mid-Atlantic Association club, the Athena Track Club, placed eight with 111 points.

The victory adds the indoor crown to the outdoor title that TNT took from the perennial powerhouse Southern California club last July at the 2011 USA Masters Outdoor Track & Field Championships.

Before being toppled by TNT, the Southern California club had won the indoor title six of the previous seven years, and the outdoor title three years in a row.

Athena Breaks World Records

W50 Teams Set Relay Marks; Jasper Takes World Title

With two world records and a world title, the Athena Track Club is off to a fast start – a very fast start – on the track this year.

In February, an Athena quartet with two Philadelphia-area members beat the listed world record for the indoor 4x400 meters in the 50-59 age division at the Millrose Games in the Armory in New York City. The team of Debra Hoffman, Lorraine Jasper, Julie Hayden and Cheryl Bellaire clocked 4:27.73 to smash the mark of 4:43.27 set by an American team in 2004.

Hayden, in a posting on the masterstrack.com website, said the team had planned to try to break the record, “and we were aware of what we needed to do to break it.”

“Invasion of Indy,” and indeed the club drew strength from numbers. With 37 athletes entering a total of 165 events, it had the largest contingent of contestants among the 77 clubs participating in the championships, which were held March 16-18 at the Harry Gladstein Fieldhouse.

The team’s greatest strengths were in the field events – especially for the women – as well as the relays and the pentathlon.

TNT won seven of the relay races, including all three distances – 4x200 meters, 4x400 meters and 4x800 meters – in the 30-39 age group for both men and women.

In the pentathlons, TNT had four gold medalists: David Ash in the 40-44 men’s group, Christine Roemer in the 45-49 women’s group, Jo Phelps in the 50-54 women’s group and Delores Grandison in the 55-59 women’s group.

Multiple gold medal winners included:

► Charmaine Davis won the 200 meters, shot put, weight throw and super weight throw in the 30-34 women’s age group.

► Jill Cypress won the 60 meters, 400 meters, long jump and triple jump in the 35-39 women’s group.

► Vandora Myers won the shot put, weight throw and super weight throw in the 35-39 women’s group.

► Linda Butts won the shot put, weight throw and super weight throw in the 40-44 women’s group.

► Christine Roemer won the long jump, high jump and pentathlon in the 45-49 women’s group.

► Jo Phelps won the long and high jumps and the pentathlon in the 50-54 women’s group.

► Matthew Crowell won the weight throw and super weight throw in the 30-34 men’s group.

“In track and field, if track is the beauty and elegance of the sport, then the field is the often-unseen strength that keeps the sport going,” Lanier said. “If TNT had to choose one or the other, we would pick the field. No doubt we are a Field and Track Team.”

Formed four years ago, TNT has been building up to the national championship ever since. It placed 11th in 2009, third in 2010, and second and 2011.

The club has been awarded Mid-Atlantic’s Jack Milne Award for outstanding club the last two years.

2012 USA MASTERS INDOOR TRACK & FIELD CHAMPIONSHIPS

‘The Invasion of Indy’

I would like to thank God first and foremost for our abilities to still run, jump and throw at a high level.

I'm NOT a big boxing fan of late but if I had to compare an epic battle to our win, it would be the 1985 boxing match of "Marvelous" Marvin Hagler vs. Thomas "Hitman" Hearns. The defending champions -- SoCal Track Club from the California Association -- vs. TNT International Racing Club from the Mid-Atlantic Association. If one hasn't seen the boxing match between Hagler and Hearns -- it was almost 8.5 minutes of slobber-knocker!

Day One of the Invasion of Indy: We knew that we would be down at the end of day one but just had to weather the storm, meaning we only wanted to be down 40 to 50 points. Our pentathletes came ready and did their thing. TNT led early but still had the 400 meters and 3 kilometers to go. Kareem Lanier was the sole 3k runner for us. If one had to describe his race from the outside, it was terrible. But if one knew what he was recovering from -- a severe case of colitis (borderline Crohn's Disease) -- his race said perseverance. Kareem said he was tired and hungry but had two races to go. TNT was down by 40 points.

Day Two of the Invasion of Indy: We didn't have that same spirit as if we can take on the world. We moved slightly ahead but the fire in the belly wasn't there. As one of the leaders, I called everyone over who wasn't competing at the time to tell them about how I'll personally give my ALL for all of them and love them because they are my brothers and sisters. We all began to look at one another, raised our hands to form one and yelled, "FAMILY"! The fire was back and we took a commanding lead with our relays (4x200 and 4x800) and Long Jumps. We went up by 50 points and knew we just had to stay strong through Day 3 for the win.

Day Three of the Invasion of Indy: Up by 50 points with open 800 meters and 200 meters to go on the track, our field team in Triple Jump continues to hit "Mark"! In track and field, if track is the beauty and elegance of the sport, then the field is the often from Madison Square Garden to the Armory. Hayden said the Armory track “is certainly faster and better than Madison Square Garden. Obviously, not as large a venue as MSG, but a great atmosphere.”

Then in March, an Athena team composed of Kathy Haubrich, Hayden, Bellaire and Jasper set a world record of 10:38.97 in the 4x800 meters for the 50-59 group at the USA Masters Indoor Track & Field Championships in Bloomington, Ind.

The club placed eighth overall among the 79 clubs in the team standings, although only nine members competed. In the 50-54 group, Jasper won the 800 meters in 2:28.6 and the mile in 5:46.4, and Hayden won the 400 meters in 1:08.8. And an Athena 4x400 relay team placed first in the 40-49 group with a time of 4:30.18.

In April, Jasper won the 800 meters in the women's 50-54 age division at the World Masters Indoor Championships in Jyväskylä, Finland. Her time was 2:28.31, less than two seconds off the U.S. record. Jasper also took second in the 1,500 meters with a time of 5:02.65.

The Athena Track Club was established in 2006 to provide opportunities for like-minded elite female runners to compete as a team in masters track, road racing and cross-country events. The club draws its members from across the country and is registered as a club with USATF Mid-Atlantic.

Jasper and Bellaire are from the Philadelphia region. Hoffman is from California, Hayden is from Virginia, and Haubrick lives in Minnesota.

At top, Cheryl Bellaire passes the baton to anchor Lorraine Jasper on the way to setting a world record of 10:38.97 in the 4x800 meters for the 50-59 age group in Bloomington, Ind. Outdoor Championships Set for Widener

The 2012 USATF Mid-Atlantic Open/Masters Outdoor Track And Field Championships will be held on Saturday, June 9, at Widener University in Chester, PA.

The Open Division is for athletes aged 14 to 29, and the Masters Division is for those 30 and older. Entrants must have current USATF membership. Membership applications will be available at the meet, but we strongly recommend that membership be obtained before the meet.

Entry fees are $10 per individual event for entries postmarked by June 2. After that, the fee is $20 for the first individual event and $10 for each additional event. For relays, registration and payment of $20 per team will be on the day of the meet only. Also, hurdlers must pre-register.

Widener University coach Kevin Cunningham has agreed to run the championship meet. He will act as meet director and arrange for timing. He will also provide volunteers to assist in running the meet. The High Performance Committee will cover the facility, officials and promotion of the meet and help out where needed. HP will also manage the registration.

 unseen strength that keeps the sport going, in my opinion. If TNT had to choose one or the other, we would pick the field. No doubt we are a Field and Track Team. As one age group of the 4x400m relay begins and ends, the championship is still close by 40 to 50 points. The final event is called, the superweight throw for 30 to 49 ... women. Ten women begin to walk over. By the way, 7 out of the 10 are from TNT! Like in boxing, when a boxer gets into a flurry with his punches, the TNT women hit a flurry of "Mark, Mark, Mark"! Like punches landing to the body and sweat flying off the body that's being hit, the weight hit the surface and the chalk continued to fly up and out!!! Typically a meet ends with the mile relay, screaming and yelling. Not this championship. If anyone thought TNT was the BOMB, the TNT women dropped one in the final event! Great performance by those women, sealing the deal.

Of course, this championship didn't take 8.5 minutes, but it had all the excitement one looks for in sports. This championship did describe the TNT Family - Perseverance, Faith, Love, Encouragement and Determination.

LONG DISTANCE RUNNING: GRAND PRIX CIRCUIT

Bryn Mawr Races to the Front

With 2 Wins, McKeeman Leads Club to Top in Club Challenge

The Grand Prix Circuit Club Challenge is taking a different course so far this year, with the Bryn Mawr Running Club racking up the most points in each of the first three races – and club member Michael McKeeman winning two of them.

The Greater Philadelphia Track Club is in second place, followed by the Pike Creek Valley Running Club. The South Jersey Athletic Club, which has won the Club Challenge 10 years in a row, lags in fourth place.

But there is a long way to go, and all 10 clubs appear to be competitive. And because each club's score is based on its best seven events, even clubs that miss one or two early races aren't out of contention.

A particularly bright spot is the entry of a new club, the Keystone Track Club based in Central Pennsylvania, which scored a respectable 367 points in the Valley Forge Revolutionary Run 5-Miler.

In the individual age-graded standings, there are few surprises so far. Doreen McCoubrie, who finished first in the women's standings last year, is on top again, followed by Julie Hankin and Kyra McGrath, who also finished in the Top Ten in 2011.

On the men's side, last year's top two finishers, Greg Watson and Jim Sery, are one-two again, followed by John Costello in third.

ADRENALINE 5K

The Bryn Mawr club has run strongly starting from the first race, when the club's runners took three of the top ten places at the Adrenaline 5K in Haddonfield, NJ, on March 17.

McKeeman, 35, won the race (and the $400 prize) for the second straight year. His time of 14:51 was almost a minute ahead of the next finisher. Zach Miller finished fourth and Tom Parlapiano was ninth.

The Grand Prix Club Challenge standings are based on the top five age-graded scores for each club (including at least one woman), not on finish place. Bryn Mawr had the top two male age-graded scores – McKeeman with 88.8 and Watson with 87.

Greater Philadelphia got a big boost from 72-year-old Sandra Folzer, whose age-graded score was 89.3, and secured second place in the Club Challenge standings.

Samantha Howard, Mid-Atlantic's open female athlete of the year in 2011, finished first among the women runners and lifted the Downingtown Running Club to third place on the club standings ladder.

Doreen McCoubrie finished first among masters women and scored 92.1 – still the only score over 90 on the circuit this year – but it doesn't count toward the Club Challenge because her team, the Athena Track Club, had only four finishing runners.

Other high age-graded scores in the Adrenaline 5K were 86 for Mike Digennaro of the Pike Creek Valley Running Club and 85 for Joy Hampton of South Jersey. A total of 922 runners finished the race.

CAESAR RODNEY

McKeeman didn't run in the Caesar Rodney Half Marathon, the second race on the Grand Prix Circuit. But his club-mate Bob Schwelm did, and his ninth-place finish, at age 53, contributed an 89.7 age-graded score to Bryn Mawr's total. Also for Bryn Mawr, Matt Flynn came fifth and Watson was eighth.

Jeffrey Hayes, also 53, finished 17th and scored 87.2 for Greater Philadelphia, helping keep the club in second place in the Club Challenge. Hampton's 84.7 score nudged South Jersey up into third place.

The winner of the half-marathon, for the second year straight, was Darryl Brown, in 1:09.54 seconds. Brown, 29, runs for the Downingtown club and was Mid-Atlantic's 2011 open male athlete of the year.

More than 1,400 runners finished the 13.1-mile race, which loops through Wilmington, DE.

VALLEY FORGE

In the third race of the circuit, Mid-Atlantic members took nine of the top ten male places and seven of the top ten female places among the more than 1,000 runners at the Valley Forge Revolutionary Run 5-Miler on April 22.

Six runners from the Bryn Mawr club finished in the top ten, including McKeeman in first and Pat Hayburn in third. Bryn Mawr member Cecily Tynan finished third among the women.

From other clubs, Sayard Tanis Gonzalez of Keystone was the first woman finisher, and Matthew Sandercock of the Downingtown Running Club finished fifth.

The top female age-graded scorers were McCoubrie (87.5), Tynan (83.2) and Lorraine Jasper (82.5). Among the men, the best age-graded scores were McKeeman (88.3), Sandercock (86.6) and Watson (84.9).

Joy Hampton Places In Boston

On a miserably hot day for a marathon, Mid-Atlantic's Joy Hampton ran 4:07:45 to place second in the 65-69 age group at the Boston Marathon on April 16.

Hampton was just 2:13 off the winning time in her age group — the 25th consecutive year she has completed the Boston Marathon.

Greater Philly 3 for 3 In Off-Road Races

The Greater Philadelphia Track Club leads the Off-Road Club Challenge after the first three races, aiming to win the eight-race competition for a third year in a row.

As usual, the series opened with the notorious Ugly Mudder Trail Run. Defying its reputation and name, the seven-mile race – which is held the last Sunday in February, sometimes in snow, mud or bitter cold – was run in sunshine and temperatures in the upper 40s.

Matthew Byrne of the Pineland Striders finished second, and the Rosemont Running Club had three top-ten finishers – James Stoltzfus (fourth), Ryan Bair (fifth) and Christopher Garges (ninth).

But Greater Philadelphia had greater depth and higher age-graded scores, which the series is based on. Jeff Hayes, 53, and Bob Rimkis, 51, finished one-two among runners 40 or over. Their teammates Mary Braverman, 49, and Julie Deery, 46, were one-two among the masters women.

The 2012 Ugly Mudder was the second-largest race ever held by Pretzel City Sports, with 882 entries from 16 states including California, Oregon and Washington, Utah and Colorado.

The course along a mountain trail overlooking Reading, PA, was redesigned for this year because parts of the mountain have been closed to races, so the winning times became the new course record.

In the second race, the Tyler Arboretum 10K Trail Run, Mid-Atlantic members took eight of the top 10 places.

“It was a great day to run and our USATF members did not disappoint,” said Ted Hardies, coordinator of the Off-Road Series and a member of the Pineland Striders.

Five of the top ten finishers were from the Rosemont Running Club, including winner Bill Steele and runner-up Nick Suter, but Rosemont fell two points short of Greater Philadelphia overall in the age-graded scoring.

In the third race of the series, the Triple Crown 10K in Delaware, Greater Philadelphia had four top-ten finishers, including Rimkis in third, and came out ahead in the Club Challenge standings again.

Rosemont runners Thomas Devlin and Fran Magri were the first male and female finishers in the race.

‘A ROMP IN THE WOODS’

At first, a rushing mass of humanity, and then long stretches of quiet exertion, punctuated occasionally by a welcome water break, or a not-so-welcome water barrier. That’s the Tyler Trail 10K, which Off-Road Series coordinator and runner Ted Hardies called a “romp in the woods of the beautiful Tyler Arboretum.”

2011 USATF MID-ATLANTIC AWARDS

Bill Belleville addresses the audience after receiving the Jesse Owens Award, Mid-Atlantic's highest honor.

'One of the Best in the Business'

Bill Belleville, Pioneer in Certifying Race Courses, Receives Jesse Owens Award

Few long-distance running records are set in the Philadelphia region without him, but most runners would not even recognize Bill Belleville.

Belleville has certified about 400 courses in the region for USATF, including the Philadelphia Marathon, and in January he was honored with the Jesse Owens Award for service, the highest recognition granted by the Mid-Atlantic Association.

The award was the highlight of the annual Award Luncheon honoring achievements in track and field for 2011. The ceremony on Jan. 28 at Central Baptist church in Wayne, PA, was attended by about 130 athletes, coaches, officials, administrators and supporters of the honorees.

Jim Marino, race director of the Broad Street Run, presented the award to Belleville and said: "We've had numerous national records set on these courses, and it's all because of this gentleman."

A proclamation by Philadelphia Mayor Michael A. Nutter was read at the ceremony, commending Belleville for his "significant role in the development and growth of the Philadelphia Marathon" and commending his dedication to the sport of competitive

Belleville, a longtime marathon runner, uses a bicycle with a mechanical measuring device attached to the wheel to precisely measure and document the distance on a course. "Over the years, Bill's mathematical skills and talent for drawing accurate maps has earned him a reputation as one of the best in the business," the proclamation said.

CLUB OF THE YEAR

The TNT International Racing Club, which was formed only four years ago, received the Jack Milne Award for outstanding club for the second year in a row.

TNT won the USA Masters Outdoor Track and Field Championships in 2011, defeating the perennial powerhouse Southern California Track Club. (In March, TNT won the Indoor Championships as well.)

ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

The Frank Percival Award for outstanding athlete went to long-distance runner Doreen McCoubrie

2011 USATF MID-ATLANTIC AWARDS

Citation Issued by Philadelphia Mayor Michael A. Nutter

The City of Philadelphia is home to international attractions and compelling public events. Our city's year-round calendar of special events provides important opportunities to showcase our place in American history and prominence in architecture, culture, and scenic beauty, among other attributes.

The Philadelphia Marathon, a 26.2 mile USATF-certified race taking place each November, gives our city a unique opportunity to shine a light on many of these attributes including a course that winds through our vibrant center city, past the stirring landmarks of Independence National Historical Park and spectacular views of our Museum District and the incomparably beautiful landscape of Fairmount Park.

USATF course certification produces road race courses of accurately measured distances. For any road running performance to be accepted as a record or be nationally ranked, it must be run on a USATF-certified course. The process for having a course certified requires the qualified skill of an individual who is expert at measuring courses for USATF certification.

Few will ever have the chance to know the twists, turns, elevations and neighborhoods bordering this runner-friendly course with greater intimacy and professional attention to detail than the "go-to" regional certifier for races in Pennsylvania, Bill Belleville.

for the fourth time since 2005.

"Doreen had a spectacular year," said Robin Jefferis, chair of the Long Distance Running Committee chair.

McCoubrie, 50, won the women's USATF Masters 5K Cross Country Championship in October with a time of 19 minutes and 44 seconds – 37 seconds ahead of the next finisher.

She finished 14th overall among women in the Philadelphia Marathon with a time of 2:50.23.

Bill Belleville, a retired civil engineer and a veteran runner who entered his first marathon in Philadelphia, was in the vanguard of a 1980's movement to officially certify races. Over the years, Bill's mathematical skills and talent for drawing accurate maps has earned him a reputation as one of the best in the business.

During his tenure as a USATF National Certifier, Bill Belleville, has certified as many as 400 courses and still uses his signature bicycle with a finely calibrated mechanical counter fixed to the axel. Bill's precision work is critical if a runner is going to document his or her "personal best." For over 28 years Bill Belleville has given marathoners his personal best and put the Philadelphia Marathon on the map...the official USATF-certified course map.

On Saturday, January 28th, 2012 USATF hosts its Mid-Atlantic Awards Luncheon and on this occasion will present Bill Belleville with a USATF Association Award for Service.

It is fitting and appropriate, therefore, that the City of Philadelphia officially recognize with this Citation for his significant role in the development and growth of the Philadelphia Marathon and join with the USATF in commending him for his dedication to the international sport of competitive running.

OFFICIAL OF THE YEAR

The Scott Mills Memorial award for outstanding official was given to Cynthia Young, who is vice chair of the Youth Athletics Committee.

Young was the head official for the long and triple jumps at the 2011 World Youth Track & Field Trials in Myrtle Beach, SC.

She also officiated at the ACC Outdoor Championships in Greensboro and the Pan American Junior Championships.

ATHLETES OF THE YEAR: LONG DISTANCE RUNNING

OPEN FEMALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

Samantha Howard won the award for the second year straight, but 2011 was a year of firsts for her.

She completed her first half-marathon in September. In November, she ran her first marathon – placing fifth in the Philadelphia Marathon and qualifying for the Olympic Trials with a time of 2:45.45.

Howard, 25, is an ancient history teacher and reading specialist at Manheim Township High School, near Lancaster, PA.

She ran for Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, setting six school records and winning multiple Atlantic 10 Conference medals. Samantha joined the Downingtown Running Club in 2010.

OPEN MALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

Darryl Brown, 29, won two Grand Prix Circuit races in 2011 -- the Caesar Rodney Half Marathon in 1:09.46 and the Radnor 5-Mile Run in 25:40. (He won the Caesar Rodney again this March.)

Brown has been a fixture on the 5K and 10K road circuit for years. He moved up to longer distances in 2010 and won the Delaware Distance Classic 15K. The half-marathon is now his favorite distance.

Brown was the top runner at Kennett Square High School and East Stroudsburg University. He now coaches at Tatnall School in Delaware. His girls cross country team was third in the nation last year.

MASTERS FEMALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

This is the sixth time that Doreen McCoubrie has won this award in the past eight years.

This year she also received the Frank Percival Award for outstanding athlete for the fourth time. (See Page 8.)

In 2011, McCoubrie, 50, had age-graded scores in the 92-94% range in the Philadelphia Marathon, the Adrenaline 5K, the Ben Franklin Bridge 10K and the USA Masters 5K Road Championship, which she won.

MASTERS MALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

This is the second time Matt Sandercock has won the Masters Male Athlete of the Year award. He previously won in 2009. He has also won the Open Male Athlete of the Year award.

Sandercock, 42, who runs for the Downingtown Running Club, had the highest average age-graded score for men in the association last year.

He finished in the top 10 and won the masters division in three Grand Prix races — the Haddonfield Adrenaline 5K, (15:28), the Cooper Norcross Bridge Run 10K (33:13) and the Rothman 8K (24.46).

ATHLETES OF THE YEAR: HIGH PERFORMANCE / MASTERS

At 80, Five U.S. Records in a Year

MASTERS FEMALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

It wasn't too long after Gloria Krug entered the 80-84 age division that the American records began to fall.

On June 11, she set a weight throw record of 8.51 meters at the Southeastern Masters Championships in Raleigh, NC. The next day, she threw the super-weight 6.15 meters, another record.

Later that month, at the National Senior Games in Houston, she broke the shot put record with a distance of 7.21 meters. The next month, at the World Masters in Sacramento, she broke her own record, this time shot-putting 7.53 meters. She also threw the hammer 21.33 meters for a record, then scored 3,818 points in the throws pentathlon, another record.

Krug is no stranger to records. She still holds two in the 75-79 division – the throws pentathlon and superweight pentathlon. She's also no stranger to awards – she has been the Mid-Atlantic Masters Field Athlete of the Year three times since 2006.

Add another honor to the list: Krug was named 2011 Masters Track & Field Athlete of the Year at the Mid-Atlantic awards luncheon.

MASTERS MALE ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

Nick Berra, 43, ran the fastest indoor 800 meters for the 40-44 age division in 2011, 1:59.00, at the Mid-Atlantic Indoor Championships in Newark, DE, in March. He also won the event at the Masters Outdoor Championships and placed fifth in 1:57.07 at the World Masters Athletic Championships in Sacramento.

He won the masters 800 meters at the Drake Relays and then two days later anchored a Greater Philadelphia Track Club 4x400 team to third at the Penn Relays – the club's first medal there – in a club record time.

Berra won the masters 1,500 meters invitational at the U.S. Outdoor Track and Field Championships in Eugene, Ore., and ran the second-fastest mile of 2011 for his age group, 4:23.48

At the Olympic Games in London in 1908, Philadelphia runner John Baxter Taylor won a place in history — the first African-American to represent the U.S. at the Olympics, and the first to bring home a gold medal. With international fame, and a doctorate in veterinary medicine from Penn, his future seemed limitless. But the story would take a tragic turn.

THE LIFE OF JOHN BAXTER TAYLOR 1882-1908

PIONEER CHAMPION GENTLEMAN

By DAVID S. JOHNSON, Director of the Penn Relays

Last of three parts

John Baxter Taylor returned to the United States recognized and celebrated at home and around the world.

After their victory in the sprint medley relay at the 1908 Olympics in London, Taylor and the other team members had been feted abroad, including a trip to Ireland with several I-AAC members.

Upon their return the Olympians were invited to meet President Theodore Roosevelt at his Sagamore Hill home in Oyster Bay, New York, on August 31. There the President greeted Taylor warmly, as reported by the New York Times, September 1:

When John B. Taylor, the colored middle-distance runner of the University of Pennsylvania came along he received a hearty greeting, with the remark: "I am very glad to see you. You did nobly."

Unfortunately, Taylor's fame was short-lived. He died suddenly at the age of 26, barely four months after returning from the Olympic Games and Ireland.

Taylor succumbed to typhoid pneumonia on Wednesday, December 2, 1908, at his home on 3223 Woodland Avenue, located in what is now the heart of Philadelphia's Drexel University campus and only three blocks from Penn's Franklin Field.

THE LIFE OF JOHN BAXTER TAYLOR

"I am very glad to see you. You did nobly."

— President Theodore Roosevelt, welcoming Taylor to his home after the Olympic victory

The next morning, the notice of his death was the featured story in the Philadelphia Inquirer sports section. The headline, above a large photograph of him, read "Red and Blue Athlete Runs His Last Race. John Baxter Taylor, the Former Colored Champion Quarter Mile Runner of the Pennsylvania Track Team, Dies After Severe Attack of Illness." The Inquirer article mentioned that "Taylor was extremely popular with all of the students." In the same article Michael Murphy, who had been Taylor's coach for the last three years, was quoted as saying that he regarded Taylor as one of the best men he ever trained.

The University of Pennsylvania's student newspaper, the Daily Pennsylvanian, covered extensively the mourning on campus for one of the school's most respected students and someone who was always popular with his teammates. In an editorial, the Daily Pennsylvanian summarized by stating: "We can pay him no higher tribute—John Baxter Taylor: Pennsylvania man, athlete and gentleman."

Taylor's funeral was held on Saturday, December 5, on a humid, overcast day which threatened rain. A temperature in the 30s kept no one from coming to pay their respects. Four clergymen from as far away as Boston officiated at the services at the family home.

Among the "several thousand" mourners were the entire Penn track team, including coach Michael Murphy and Olympic teammates Tom Moffitt and Lloyd Jones, and many of its alumni, among them Olympic champions George Orton and Walter Tewksbury, as well as his first coach at Penn, Dr.

J.K. Shell. The list of Olympic champions and world record holders presented a litany of athletic greats, including Harry Hillman and many of his I-AAC club mates—Mel Sheppard, John Flanagan, Johnny Hayes, Harry Porter, Martin Sheridan, and coaches Bernie Wefers and Ernie Hjertberg.

Taylor was buried in the newly established public resting place for African Americans, Eden Cemetery, outside the Philadelphia city limits in the town of Darby. A fifty carriage cortege spanning more than a city block covered the four miles to the cemetery.

As befitting a person of his caliber, several newspapers featured news of the services. In its coverage of the funeral, The New York Times called Taylor "the world's greatest negro runner" and called it "one of the greatest tributes ever paid a colored man in this city."

In many ways, the greatest insights into Taylor the man came at the notice of his passing. Even then, what is known outside his athletic accomplishments is little.

He did graduate the University of Pennsylvania in 1908 with a VMD degree, Veterinariae Medicinae Doctori. As someone who lived so close to the Penn campus, he probably lived at home during his five years of academic work at the university and probably traveled only for competitions. He took two trips to the British Isles, in 1905 and 1908, both for competitions, and these appear to be the only times he was far enough from his family and away from home long enough to have written letters or cards. No such correspondence has been found.

David S. Johnson has been the Frank Dolson Director of Penn Relays for 16 years. He is also the Steering Committee Chair of the National Track and Field Hall of Fame and for 30 years has been one of the compilers of the authoritative Track & Field News annual track and field world rankings. He has written and spoken on a number of occasions about John Baxter Taylor. This article is a slightly revised version of an article that originally appeared (2010) in "Roots," a newsletter of the National Archives.

THE LIFE OF JOHN BAXTER TAYLOR

“Quite unostentatious, genial, kindly, the fleet-footed, far-famed athlete was beloved wherever known.”

— Harry Porter, fellow Olympian and fellow member of the Irish-American Athletic Club

In the United States he competed mostly in Philadelphia and New York. He ran south of the Mason-Dixon Line only the one time at the 1907 AAU championships in Norfolk. Aside from that, all his competitions fit neatly into an area cornered by Boston, Massachusetts to the northeast, Ithaca, New York to the northwest, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania to the southwest, and Philadelphia to the southeast.

The few records that exist in the University of Pennsylvania’s archives consist of death notices and news stories from December 1908, as well as academic records, including his enrollment card. There are signatures on some of the cards, but even these seem just as likely to be those of the registrar, rather than in Taylor’s own hand.

One early effort to memorialize the Olympic gold medalist was the Taylor Memorial Quarter Mile, inaugurated in 1913 as the feature event at the annual indoor meet of the Smart Set Athletic Club, an African-American club based in Brooklyn, New York. The event was contested each year until the meet ceased to exist in 1918 when the New York City armories — a prime location for indoor track meets — were fully taken over for military efforts during World War I.

For one brief moment in time, however, Taylor was one of the world’s most famous Black athletes. That fame was tragically cut short by his death and his achievements were soon eclipsed by those of Jack Johnson, who won the world heavyweight boxing championship just three weeks after Taylor’s death. Other Black champions soon followed, and as the decades passed, the memories of Taylor’s successes faded.

In recent years a number of measures have been undertaken to honor Taylor’s achievements and keep his memory alive. The University of Pennsylvania features his biography on the website for its University Archives and articles have appeared in the alumni magazine. His story is also included on the Ivy League and Winged Fist Organization websites and has appeared in sports magazines and other media.

In 2002, the Council of Ivy Group Presidents announced that an anonymous gift had been made to establish the John Baxter Taylor Trophy, an award that is given annually to the Ivy League Men’s Heptagonal Team Champion. Taylor was further honored in 2005 when he was inducted into the Penn Athletic Hall of Fame.

Unfortunately for those telling his story, Taylor the man is not someone whose portrait can be painted, adding one quantifiable layer on top of another. Taylor instead is a statue, a man whose persona can only be hewn from the block of stone that is his times, chipping away all that cannot be true to leave a rough impression.

Perhaps some insight into John Baxter Taylor, the man and the athlete, can be gleaned from a statement by one who knew him. At the time of his death, fellow Olympian Harry Porter wrote a warm tribute to Taylor’s parents that appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer on December 4:

. . . It is far more as the man [than as an athlete] that John Taylor made his mark. Quite unostentatious, genial, kindly, the fleet-footed, far-famed [Penn] athlete was beloved wherever known . . . As a beacon light of his race, his example of achievement in athletics, scholarship and manhood will never wane, if indeed it is not destined to form with that of Booker T. Washington . . .

HIGH PERFORMANCE TRACK & FIELD

Earlier Date for Indoor Champs

In the last two years, the association's indoor championship has been held after the national championship, which has resulted in a drop-off in participation. The High Performance Committee is recommending that the indoor championship should be scheduled before the indoor nationals date in the future.

HIGH PERFORMANCE COMMITTEE
Rogers Glispy

The association championship should be a build-up to nationals for members seeking qualifying marks. The recommended date for 2013 is the weekend of March 2 or March 9, depending on the nationals date.

The Philadelphia Masters Track and Field Association is looking to take on the meet again and will try to get officials for those dates. Philadelphia Masters also plans to hold a developmental indoor series again.

Coming: Track & Field Grand Prix

A new Track & Field Grand Prix Circuit will be inaugurated in the coming year. The committee has affirmed the categories and age-graded tables for scoring the circuit. The committee also decided to give only individual awards at first, and to add team awards at a later date.

Committee Goals

The committee has affirmed that our primary goal is to promote the sport of track and field to out-of-school athletes. The committee plans to further this effort by:

- ▶ Holding more meets annually for our members, including full meets, the track & field grand prix, distance/sprint/throwers nights, etc.

- ▶ Offering clinics for athletes, coaches and officials in our association in subjects such as pole vault, throws, jumps and race walk certification for officials.

- ▶ Promoting events throughout the region to better serve areas outside of the Philadelphia metro area such as southeastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, central and northern Pennsylvania, etc.

- ▶ Reaching out to clubs and members outside the Philadelphia metro area to become involved in High Performance.

- ▶ Identifying under-represented Mid-Atlantic members – such as race walkers, throwers, athletes with special needs, etc. – and surveying their wants and needs.

- ▶ Increasing visibility and marketing of High Performance through selling and giving away merchandise.

2011 USATF ANNUAL MEETING

Here are two additional reports from Mid-Atlantic delegates to the USATF national meeting last December in St. Louis. Reports previously filed by other association delegates may be viewed at mausatf.org.

U.S. Gains Stature in Race Walking World

Noteworthy performances by the 2011 national teams showed that U.S. competitiveness in race walk continues to improve.

At the Pan American Cup in March in Medellin, Colombia, the U.S. men's team won the silver medal in the sport, which is usually dominated by South and Central American teams. The women's team finished fourth, with Solomiya Login of the Mid-Atlantic Association finishing third among the U.S. athletes and 18th overall.

At the Pan American Games held in October at altitude in Guadalajara, Mexico, U.S. athletes finished in the top 10 in the men's and women's 20-kilometer race walk and in the men's 50-kilometer race walk.

The women's and men's teams combined for a dominating victory in the USA vs. Canada junior international race walk team event in August in Boston.

RACE WALKING
Ed Richardson

Increasing Participation

The themes at the annual meeting continued to focus on how to expand the number of young men and women who train and compete.

A new Apprentice Program was introduced. This is a two-year funding opportunity for associations to develop and implement new programs in all of the disciplines: track, field, race walk, disabled athletics and judging.

The purpose is to increase the number and skill of participants at the grass roots level. The program is expected to be rolled out during 2012.

National Elections

A national nominations committee was appointed to take charge of the 2012 election and credentials process for national race walk officers and national committee staff. Solomiya Login was appointed to this important four-person committee.

Controversy on Drug Testing

One of the more controversial issues was the initiation of drug testing at the Masters Track & Field Championships at Berea, Ohio, this past summer.

Even though athletes were warned ahead of time and testing was limited,

MASTERS TRACK & FIELD
Carl Grossman

several athletes were found to be out of compliance.

Estate Bequests

Because of financial issues, an Estate Bequest Model was presented as a guide for athletes on bequeath money directly to Masters Track and Field.

Championship Announcers

It was also agreed that the local organizing committee that puts on National Masters Track and Field Championships should be responsible for engaging an announcer.

10K Championship Race

It was proposed that a 10k race walk be added as a trial for one year at the Masters Outdoor Track & Field Championships, which will be held in Lisle, Ill., in August.

Update on Solomiya Login

Philadelphia race walker Solomiya Login qualified in Eugene, OR, on April 1 to be a member of the Team USA 2012 and will compete in the IAAF World Cup in Saransk, Russia, on May 12-13.

As part of her preparations for the July 1 Olympic trials, also in Eugene, Login recently returned to Colombia to continue training at altitude.

She was invited to race in the Colombian Regional Championship race, the "Copa Nacional de Marcha Atlética." She placed fourth in the elite women's division in the 20k race in the suburbs of Bogota at 8,350 feet altitude.

Officials Certifications Still On Hold

As I write this, some new officials have been waiting for their credentials for five months. The same goes for officials who have recertified or have requested upgrades in their certification level.

No, I haven't lost the paperwork, or put the process on hold. Every certification chair in the country was told to stop using the website we have used for the last eight years to enter officials into the national database as a new website was being opened in January.

The revamped website is still not up and running, putting a hold on the entire certification process.

If you have submitted the application, application fee and test, feel free to tell anyone asking that your certification is pending. I understand that some officials have not volunteered to work some of the Mid-Atlantic meets because they haven't received their certification number to complete the meet applications. If that is the case, please write "pending" on the certification number space.

At this point, the Youth Committee still needs officials for their Junior Olympic series, and I encourage you to help out. If you are available and have not applied, please write to Cynthia Young at cm1099@aol.com.

Officials Must Hold USATF Membership

All certified officials are reminded that they need to maintain their USATF membership. The membership comes with insurance and current officials have additional secondary insurance which covers you at meets other than USATF-sanctioned events.

OFFICIALS NEWS

If you need to obtain your membership, which is yearly, not by Olympiad as certification, go to our website, www.mausatf.org, and there you can either download a paper form or pay online with any credit card.

New Olympiad Starts in November

The certification process begins anew on Nov. 1 for the next Olympiad. Officials are certified for four-year periods, not to be confused with yearly USATF membership.

We all will need to apply, pay an application fee, and re-take the appropriate test. It is a good time to consider sending in a more updated photo as some of them are a little dated.

If you are considering becoming a USATF official or know someone who is interested, I encourage you to apply now. The national committee gives NEW officials in the last year of an Olympiad that year PLUS the following four years of the new Olympiad.
